

DAILY WORKER
Approved For Release 2000/06/13 : CIA-RDP

LONDON, ENGLAND

13 APRIL 1965

CPYRGHT

INTELLIGENCE
ADMIRAL

Retired U.S. Admiral William F. Raborn, who was in charge of the development project for the Polaris missile, yesterday took over the directorship of the Central Intelligence Agency. Until his retirement a year and a half ago he was research director for the U.S. Navy. He is now vice-president of the Aero Jet General Corporation in Pasadena, California. He succeeds Mr. John McCone.